Art Unit: 3723

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

- (1) A pin for limiting axial movement of the shaft
- (1) A hook-like clip for limiting axial movement of the shaft.

The species are independent or distinct because the two species have mutually exclusive characteristics;ie., a hook-like clip is not pin-like and a pin is not clip-like. A pin is, in common usage of the term, a "slender elongate form", a "slender pointed object with a head", "a peg"(Webster's Dictionary). A clip is, in common usage, a "device that grips, clasps, or hooks". A clip is not generic to a pin and a pin is not generic to a clip. These are entirely different structural devices in common usage.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The searches for these two different structures are not coextensive. To search both of these different structures having mutually exclusive characteristics would be a burden for the Office. Currently, claim 1 generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species.
